Research Committee Report

New Research Committee chair, Bryan Katz, reported that The Research Committee and Connected and Automated Vehicle Task Force (CAV TF) met together on Thursday night from 5 PM to 7:15 PM. The Research Committee kicked off the meeting with an overview of the past successes with emphasis on a new NCHRP project that is underway to look at infrastructure impacts (with an emphasis on TCDs) caused by the adoption of vehicles with technology to support connected and autonomous vehicles (NCHRP 20-102(15)). The Research Committee also held an open forum to identify and discuss new activities to develop a new vision of activities to support the NCUTCD. The CAV TF included presentations by Ed Bradley of Toyota and Rob Dingess of Mercer Alliance. The presentations and discussions were designed to help educate the CAV TF on areas of potential needs related to MUTCD revisions.

Remarks from New Chair

Newly elected NCUTCD Chair, Gene Hawkins noted that the NCUTCD has had only three chairs in 38 years; Dick Luetlich, Ken Kobetsky and Lee Billingsley and that he will be the first chair who doesn't work for a public DOT agency. He thanked everyone for their support and pledged to work for all NCUTCD members. He indicated that he plans to make some changes after the June meeting and asked for input on needed changes.

Break 10:00-10:30

Pedestrian Task Force Report

Pedestrian Task Force chair, Eagan Foster, reported that the task force had met last evening with 20 members and 13 visitors present. They had a presentation on the development of a blind walking cane to detect pavement markings that have a special ceramic additive and another presentation by an attorney with ideas for changes to the MUTCD to help protect agencies from liability when pedestrians are injured in crosswalk accidents. There were also other presentations on pedestrian issues.

Open Discussion

Lee then led some discussion on getting changes in the MUTCD and that sponsors need to know how concerned we are in getting the MUTCD updated. Part of strategic planning should be developing ways to preserve knowledge. One idea may be a webpage where people can post items.

Gene Hawkins then noted that this is the last Council meeting where Lee Billingsley will preside as chair and he thanked him for his 14 years acting in that capacity. Lee thanked everyone for their support and he received a standing ovation.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 10:50 am.

Respectfully submitted,

Robert M. Garrett, Executive Secretary
