Neighborhood in Columbus, Ohio

Short North Arts District is a hip, culture-rich area centered on N. High Street. Contemporary galleries fill converted warehouses, and the Wexner Center for the Arts hosts boundary-pushing exhibitions. Shops selling records, streetwear, and vintage clothes are interspersed with student-packed coffeehouses, craft-beer bars, and casual eateries. Programming at Short North Stage spans musicals and cutting-edge drama.

One hundred years ago, the image of Columbus was quite well defined. Of course the same could be said of many other places as well. When one said “Crescent City,” New Orleans came to mind. Philadelphia was the “City of Brotherly Love.” Minneapolis and St. Paul were the “Twin Cities.” And when one said he was going to “Arch City,” a listener knew the traveler was heading to Columbus.
